Title: Say Something

Author(s): Click here to enter text.

Year: 2015   Num/Vol: Click here to enter text.

Source: Click here to enter text.

Reviewer: Click here to enter text.   Date: Click here to enter text.

Does the document refer to EL students?   X Yes   ☐ No

Level of EL student:
☐ Beginner   X Intermediate   ☐ Advanced

Grade of EL student:
☐ 6th   X 8th   ☐ 10th   ☐ 12th
☐ 7th   ☐ 9th   ☐ 11th

Is this document:

☐ State-based standards   X Common Core State   ☐ Next Generation State
                                Standards (CCSS)   Standards (NGSS)

Document Source (check one):
☐ Peer-reviewed journal   ☐ Regional Educational Laboratory report
☐ Non-peer reviewed journal   X Book/chapter in book
☐ Newsletter   ☐ Video
☐ Professional association periodical   ☐ Original resource ☐ Trade newspaper (e.g., Chronicle of   ☐ SMES recommended: Click here to enter Higher Education)   text.
☐ Federal report (e.g., GAO report,   ☐ Website: Click here to enter text.
Department of Education)   ☐ Other: Click here to enter text.
☐ National research center

Select the ways in which this resource can be interactive (check all that apply):
Ⅹ Comments   ☐ New Source Adaptation
Ⅹ Ratings of resource   ☐ Self-assessment questionnaires
X Suggested resources through tags/strands ☐ Background Knowledge Probes ☐ Polar Opposite suggestions to hear   X Twitter – # trends, links to experts (bonus different points of view on the same topic if the expert is from SMES)
/content /grade /methods etc., if it is an   ☐ Links to Youtube/Teachertube/Vimeo article   etc.
☐ Wiki   ☐ Other: Click here to enter text.

Direct use/Purpose Statement (50 words):

Learning to analyze literature can be overwhelming for English learners. Utilizing poetry, along with meaningful and engaging activities makes literature analysis accessible to English learners. In this lesson, teachers will utilize structured discussion and text- dependent questions to help learners unlock the meanings of the text.